Cynthia Leal Cynthia Leal (born September 10, 1957 in Inwood, New York) is an American actress, best known for her starring role in the television sitcom Designing Women (1986–92). She also had starring roles in the short-lived sitcom The Black Lady of the Son (1991) and the sitcom a Very Martha (2001). Career Early years Cynthia Leal began her career in New York City as a fashion model and Playboy Playmate in 1979. She appeared in local commercials and was cast as one of the three co-hosts of an interview segment on the 1980-81 award-winning horror anthology series Tales from the Darkside. At the time, she was involved with Robert Presley, who later won a Tony Award for his book "And the World Keeps Turning", and the actor had signed to star in the Warner Bros. pilot "Fantasy Island" but had developed writer's block and withdrew from the production. Leal became friends with Garry Marshall during the production and they appeared together in the play version of the pilot. Marshall used her to soften the series' potential effects-heavy tone (like the pilot, which is largely devoid of dialog in order to focus on special effects). In 1981 she was cast as a guest player on the television soap opera One Life to Live. Designing Women After the disappointing response from MTV to a proposed sketch-comedy called "Life in the Bronx," which became Designing Women, Leal joined the cast of the ABC sitcom based on the 1988-93 hit film of the same name. Despite strong ratings and a multi-season renewal, the show never gained the same cult following as Designing Women. A number of the most memorable characters on the show, such as Dixie Carter, were cast from Leal's modeling background. During the show's sixth and final season, Leal had a recurring role on the ABC sitcom Perfect Strangers. Recent years After Designing Women ended, Leal began a guest-starring role on NYPD Blue in 1995 as Billie Davis, an upper-class young woman who becomes the victim of a mysterious kidnapping in 1995. In 1996, Leal played Bess Truman in the television film, Eleanor and Franklin. She was a member of the jury in the 1987 Miss America Pageant and was the first runner-up. She replaced Kirstie Alley for three episodes in the fifth season of Veronica

Lack of fungicidal effect of imidazole antifungal agents against Trichophyton rubrum in planktonic form or biofilm. Imidazole antifungal agents currently prescribed for the treatment of cutaneous mycoses are fungicidal in planktonic cells of Candida albicans and dermatophytes. This in vitro study examined the in vitro susceptibility of planktonic T. rubrum cells to 5 commercially available imidazole antifungal agents, namely clotrimazole, luliconazole, econazole, miconazole and oxiconazole. The concentrations of these drugs tested (0.03-2 microg/mL) were based on the cut-off concentration required to inhibit the growth of Candida albicans by 50% (1 microg/mL) and the maximum recommended concentration of these drugs for the treatment of tinea pedis/tinea unguium (2 microg/mL). All antifungal agents tested displayed poor activity against T. rubrum, with MIC50s ranging from 5.0-16.0 microg/mL, whereas MIC90s were ≥ 2 microg/mL. To investigate the antifungal activity of imidazole antifungal agents against T. rubrum in biofilm form, culture of T. rubrum in 96-well microtitre plates was evaluated under aerobic or anaerobic conditions (GasPak BBL) for 2 weeks. T. rubrum biofilms were shown to be highly resistant to all imidazole antifungal agents. No significant differences in the MIC values were seen between planktonic and biofilm cells. The activity of all imidazole antifungal agents tested against T. rubrum in vivo remains to be determined.
